[Special to The Republican, 3:30 p. m.] John W. Kern was nominated by acclamation in the Democratic State convention this afternoon for United States Senator.

The plan prepared by Governor Marshall for nominating the candidate was adopted by the Democratic State convention. Immediately after the Governor's plan was approved, the delegates began to vote on the candidates for Senator.

On the first ballot Taggart received 288 votes and Lamb, of Terre Haute, second, received 226. Kern received 100 votes. Judge Joseph H. Shea, of this city, was the sixth in the list. There were twelve candidates.

After the candidates for Senator was nominated, the delegates begin nominating the State ticket.

CATTLE FEEDERS ASSOCIATION

Will be Held at Lafayette, Indiana, April 30th.

A special meeting of the Indiana Cattle Feeders Association will be held in the new Judging Pavilion of Purdue University, Lafayette, on Saturday, April 30th, 1910, at 10:00 a. m. This occasion will mark the closing of one of the most profitable cattle feeding experiments conducted at the Purdue Experiment Station. A feature of the program will be a resume of the work done during the feeding period just closing and a presentation of results secured and cost of gains. A visit to the experimental lots will be made in connection with this part of the program and the merits of the different rations as shown by the condition of the steers in the various lots will be discussed. A committee composed of live stock commission men from Chicago and Indianapolis will value the lots on the basis of the Chicago market. Wm. M. Jones, of Fairmount, will review the cattle feeding operations conducted on his farm in cooperation with the Experiment Station. Mr. Jones is a successful cattle feeder and his discussion will embrace three years of cooperative work in practical cattle feeding under Indiana farm conditions and will be very helpful to every practical feeder. No farmer who seriously considers the future of his business and is desirous of marketing his crops in the most efficient manner, both from the standpoint of immediate cash returns and the conservation of soil fertility, can afford to miss this meeting. All interested are invited to attend.

I will open Saturday, April 30, at Diener's old stand, 302 South Chestnut street, a soft drink parlor. Will keep a full line of tobacco, cigars, ice cream, fruits of all kinds, and soft drinks. Open day and night.

REPRESENTATIVE

Of the State Board of Charities In Seymour.

Mark Smith, of Indianapolis, traveling representative of the State Board of Charities, was in the city this morning. He reports that in one week recently the association placed twenty-five children in homes. Mr. Smith has been connected with the State Board of Charities for about eleven years. At the time he began work with the organization, there were 52 orphans' homes in the State. The number has now been reduced to 42 and Mr. Smith is of the opinion that the needs of the State along this line can be better and more economically served by reducing the number still farther. Under the present existing circumstances there is a temptation in some of these institutions which are about to be depopulated to retain the children in the home for one, two or three years, or even longer, instead of putting them into a good home as early as possible. However, in order to avoid this objection, he is not in favor of going to the opposite extreme and trying to centralize all these institutions into one State institution. It is reported that a bill will be introduced in the Legislature to erect a State orphans' home, besides the one for soldiers' and sailors' orphans at Knightstown.

Eleven years ago there were about 1,200 children in the various orphans' homes in the State. This number has now increased to about 1,600, despite the constant effort to have these children placed in good homes as early as possible.

It is estimated that these institutions and the State Board of Charities working together place about 600 children annually in homes. Of this number, perhaps more than half are placed by the State board. In other words the board places on an average almost one child each day.

Three counties in the State, namely, Marion, Vanderburg and Allen, have two orphans homes each. Mr. Smith thinks this is a mistake, that it causes unnecessary expense and that the results generally are not as satisfactory.

The board frequently has applications for children from other states, but instead of filling these requests the parties are referred to similar organizations in the respective states. However, there the charity organizations in some of the border counties of the State which furnish children to persons across the state line in the immediate community.

Mr. Smith is a very busy man and is always very attentive to the children in his charge when he is here making railroad connections.

DELAYED PLANS

For New School Building are Expected Here Today.

The plans and specifications for the new school building are expected here this evening and will be placed in the hands of the competing bidders as soon as possible. The contract for the building will be let May 10. According to the arrangement with the architects each bidder may secure a set of plans by depositing $10, one-half of which amount will be returned when the plans are sent back to the architects. About ten sets of plans and specifications will be received here for the use of the various bidders.

According to the final plans adopted by the board of school trustees, the building will be 132 by 112 feet. The structure will be fireproof throughout and arranged so as to best accommodate the needs of the school. The main entrance will be on Walnut Street. A long corridor will be constructed the entire length of the building from north to south. On the right of the main entrance, on Walnut street, will be the principal's office and on the opposite side the office of the superintendent.

The high school rooms will be on the first floor. There will be an assembly room, with a seating capacity of nearly two hundred, and four recitation rooms to be used exclusively for high school purposes. Provisions have also been made for grades 1 and 2 on the first floor.

On the second floor accommodations will be made for the other grades. The seventh and eighth grades will be provided with an assembly room, similar to that for the high school. The recitations, however, will be held in separate class rooms, which will be arranged near the assembly room.

In the basement will be a physical laboratory, a room for domestic science and a large gymnasium. Arrangements will also be made for a manual training department in the basement.

The building will be fully equipped with gas and electric light fixtures and will be heated with steam.

Contractors declare that the building can be completed within four of five months and should be ready for occupancy by October 15. It is believed, however, that the building will not be ready by that time, in which case classes will have to be held in rooms about the city when school convenes in the fall. The architects were employed last January and informed the school board at that time that they could complete the plans within fourteen days, if necessary. The delay in the arrival of the plans will necessarily hinder the work on the new building. The successful contractor will tear down the old building as soon as the contract is let.

JUBILEE COMMITTEE

Making Extensive Preparations For July Celebration.

Only a little more than nine weeks till the big Fourth of July celebration and Military Jubilee, and the special committee of the first battalion is now busy soliciting contributions to meet the necessary expenses in order to insure a line of attractions which will draw the people here from all directions. The committee is meeting with excellent success and business men are contributing liberally for the celebration. The committee feels that the merchants and business men should be as liberal as possible as the liberality of the citizens in contributing toward the expenses will determine the kind of entertainment that can be arranged. A number of valuable prizes will be offered which will stimulate interest in the affair.

The fact that every dollar of the expense in giving the big attraction last year was met, despite the downpour of rain, is an evidence that the people are pretty apt to do the same thing again. As soon as the committee is assured that the contributions will warrant it they will begin booking attractions in order that they may get the best. Last year, besides the battalion, the dozen or more uniform companies and the big parade, there was the Zouave company, the Indianapolis Newsboys' band, a balloon ascension, trapeze performance, high dive, trained dogs and other excellent attractions. If the contributions justify the venture the attractions will far exceed those of last year. The committee hopes to be ready to announce in a few weeks some of their leaders which will start people making preparations to attend the celebration. When it comes to big entertainments Seymour always leads and others follow.

TEACHERS' LICENSE.

403 Applicants Failed to Make the Required Grade.

Of 1,115 applicants for the teachers' licenses who had their manuscripts examined in the office of the State Superintendent of Public Instruction in the March examinations, 702 were successful, while 413 failed to make passing grades, almost a reversal of the figures for preceding the month, when 373 applicants made passing grades, while 625 failed. In the March examinations 54 applicants for high school equivalency made passing grades. Of the number of persons granted licenses, 954 received common school licenses, while 158 received licenses to teach in high schools. The fees for the department for the month amounted to $776. Of the total number submitting manuscripts, 339 were making either a second or third trial and were not compelled to pay additional fees.

DIED.

CLARK—Benjamin H. Clark, age 21 years, died of typhoid fever at New Castle, about 11 o'clock Wednesday evening. The deceased was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Clark, of Woodstock, and was born in Washington county. He moved to this city with his parents when he was quite young and lived in this city until about a year ago when he went to New Castle to accept employment in one of the factories in that place.

Word was received here Wednesday morning that he was critically ill and his mother left at once for New Castle and was at his bedside at the time of his death. His father went this morning and will accompany the remains home Friday. The young man was to be married in June. He was an active member of the Christian church. Besides his parents the deceased is survived by three sisters and two brothers.

The funeral services will be held at the Central Christian church Saturday afternoon. Burial at Riverview. Further announcements will be made later.

DUNN—John A. Dunn, aged 64 years, died at his home on South Oak street, about 11 o'clock this morning, of pneumonia. The deceased was born in Jackson county, where he has lived all of his life. About eighteen years ago he moved to Seymour.

The deceased is survived by his wife and by six children—two sons, David and William, and four daughters, Mrs. Albert Weineke, of Indianapolis; Mrs. Charles Schneek, of Jackson county; Mrs. George Leibrand and Mrs. William Lane, of Seymour.

Funeral services will be announced later.

SHARP—Miss Jessie Sharp, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Sharp, of Redding township, died Wednesday evening shortly after eight o'clock, after a short illness, aged about 25 years. She had been in failing health for about two years, but her death was hardly expected at this time. She was in Seymour a week ago Saturday. She was born and raised in the community where she died and lived there most of her life, with the exception of a few years that she worked in Seymour. She has many friends here who mourn her loss.

with the family. Besides her parents, she leaves three brothers and one sister, Edgar, who lives in Illinois; Timothy, Frank and Edna. She was a member of the Methodist church.

Funeral services at the Christian church at Redding, Friday afternoon at two o'clock, conducted by the Rev. H. H. Allen, pastor of the First Methodist church in this city. Burial at Redding.

Veteran Speaks His Mind.

A communication from David A. Rooney, of this city to the Indianapolis Star reads as follows:

"The month of April was one of the most notable months in American history during the civil war. April 12, at 5 a. m. Gen. Beauregard opened fire on Ft. Sumter; April 19, 1861, rebellion broke out in Baltimore; April 9, Gen. Lee surrendered to the Union army. But here I want to cut this short. I am a veteran of the civil war, shot in three different places, and carry lead in my body to the present day. I get the paltry sum of $15 a month pension. They promised us poor old veterans 160 acres of land after the expiration of our term. Where is it? I guess railroad corporations got it. Every campaign they promise us to pass the $1 a-day bill. Congress will adjourn next month, then our bill will be pigeonholed."

Birthday Surprise.

The Madison Courier gives the following account of a birthday surprise given for Mrs. Catherine Dehler, mother of John V. Dehler, of this city:

"Yesterday was the occasion of an unexpected event to Mrs. Catherine Dehler, it being the 68th anniversary of her birthday. Her children planned and executed a complete surprise on her, taking advantage of her absence from home at church, and her surprise when arriving home, to find all of her children and grandchildren assembled can be imagined. Suffice it to say the event was a joyful one for her, and the only regrettable feature was that time passed too quickly. The principal feature of the day was the grand six course dinner. The visiting members of the family were Mr. and Mrs. Wm. E. Dehler, of Terre Haute, and Mr. and Mrs. John V. Dehler, and daughters, Loretta, Marguerite and Irene, of Seymour.

GOV. MARSHALL RALLIES PARTYIndiana Executive Sounds the Democratic Keynote.

A STIRRING CALL TO ARMS

In Addition to Outlining the Party's Attitude on State Measures in the Impending Campaign, Governor Marshall Reaffirms His Views Regarding the Popular Selection of a United States Senator—Great Speech Before Democratic State Convention.

Indianapolis, April 28.—Before an audience which filled Tomlinson hall to overflowing, Governor Thomas R. Marshall, in accepting the gavel as temporary chairman of the Indiana Democratic state convention last evening, sounded the keynote of his party in the coming campaign. Never was the governor's oratory heard to better advantage, and his brilliant efforts were frequently and most enthusiastically applauded. In view of the great interest that has been manifested in the governor's recent declaration favoring the naming of a candidate for the United States senate by the convention, that part of the governor's speech relating to this subject received the closest attention. He said:

It has been said that I am the author of a proposition for this convention to endorse a candidate for United States senator. I deny that statement. The proposition is not mine, but the Democratic party's, and I simply voice what I believe to be Democratic sentiment. This year in forty-four states of the Union, the people are to have, in one way or another, a larger part in the naming of their United States senators than ever before; in many of them in the way to be proposed to this convention. This proposition meets as nearly as possible the demands of Democratic platforms for twenty years and four resolutions of the house of representatives. It is not being advocated by me in the interest of any man, or in opposition to any man's ambition and desires. Let me repeat—that I maintain friendly relations with all Democrats and entangling alliances with none. It is up to this convention to do one of two things: Either to endorse a candidate for United States senator or to strike from its platform its twenty-year-old declaration that it believes in the election of United States senators by the people. If you do not want to take the people into your confidence and give them a share in saying who shall be their representatives in the United States senate, so be it. It is, however, in my judgment, not only the nearest approach which can be devised to the fulfillment of Democratic principles, but it is also sound party policy. Indeed, the fathers, realizing that there might come a time when it would be advisable for the people to take part in administering their own affairs rather than to leave such administration to their representatives, specifically provided in the bill of rights attached to the constitution of this state, that no law should ever restrain the people from instructing their representatives. This proposition is not intended to coerce or compel any representative of the people to vote against his own will. It is intended to get the election of United States senators nearer to the people than it has ever been before in Indiana; to enable large numbers of Democrats residing in Republican legislative districts to have some voice in saying who their representative in the senate of the United States shall be.

This is not a personal proposition with me. It never was so intended, and it shall not be so construed. I seek no nomination, cast no suspicion upon the good faith of the past, support no man.

Up to the People.

I have listened dispassionately to the objections which have been raised against the proposition. I have been requested to withdraw it. If this were my proposition in which I had personal interest, it would long ago have been withdrawn. It is not mine; it is yours. A Democratic state convention has power to do as it pleases. I do not believe it to be the right of any man to take from a convention the opportunity to settle a question in which the people of the state are interested. We have brevetted too many brigadiers for conspicuous bravery in defeat. We need fewer generals and more privates. The jealousies of generals fill more volumes than their victories. It is better to let the army select their own general than to let the generals select their army. Some stand for measures, not men; some stand for men, not measures; but the Democratic party in Indiana stands for measures and men. It is complained that this is "so sudden," yet I never knew a coy maiden to refuse a bold and desirable suitor on that account. It is urged that it will blind no one; neither does the nomination of a candidate for president of the United States blind the electors. It is feared that disappointed senatorial aspirants will sulk in their tents. Such men this convention would not dare trust in the blighting atmosphere of selfishness which surrounds high finance in the city of Washington. It is declared that adoption of the plan will wreck the Democratic party; that we must not tell the people whom we favor for United States senator. If the party be so fragile, it will receive so many jolts between now and November that a junk wagon will be required to haul it to the shop. I believe that the men who are seeking Democratic preferment are thoroughly imbued with the desire for Democratic success. Any one of them would gladly sacrifice himself if thereby he might bring about Democratic victory. Battles are not won by generals who hide behind trees when the shooting begins. Democratic leaders in Indiana stand for party unity and party success, and each is willing to yield to the other if the common good can thereby be advanced. Ours is not a party which rests upon the health and hopes of a single man. Ours is a party which dwells by every humble fireside and counts naught lost which ministers to the commonweal. Traitors are born, not made; and Democrats are not traitors to the people's rule. Do not forget that around two hundred thousand firesides there sit tonight, grim-visaged, liberty-loving yeomen wondering whether they amount to much in a government where Cannon and Aldrich rule in the seats of the mighty and sneer at the plain people, and that the vision they see in the freight is not a clog dance at the White House, but the marching minute men of Lexington and Bunker Hill.

I advocate this proposition merely as a Democratic doctrine, and I trust it will be thoroughly discussed in a spirit of amity and concord by the delegates and that then each delegate will vote his own judgment. If thus settled, there will be no criminalization nor re-ordination; no charges of bad faith nor dishonesty; and it should be the purpose and intention of the party to readily and cheerfully yield its united consent to the voice of the majority.

Basic Principles of Government.

We are confronted with an anomalous condition of affairs in the coming contest for the representation of this people in the United States senate. It is not my purpose to discuss the personality of the distinguished gentleman who has been endorsed by the Republican party. Able and affable, no controversy must be had with him except a controversy upon the basic principles of government. I have too much personal regard for this distinguished gentleman to quote, as I truthfully might, from many of his public utterances of the past, disclosing the fact that until very recently he was thoroughly infatuated with the idea that a protective tariff was the only thing of inestimable benefit to the American people. I would not even call attention to his oft-repeated statement that the trust was but a legitimate evolution of modern business methods. To him I grant the same right which I reserve to myself—the right to change opinions. To me, he was in all the years when he stood for an iniquitous system of government, a blind man. This year he declares that the contest is between the rights of the people and the powers of pillage. How he expects to get half way between the armies which now face themselves, the army of the people and the army of pillage, is a marvel to me. I had hoped that this distinguished statesman, discovering that principle, for which all his life he had stood, meant the begetting and nurturing of the powers of pillage, would at once desert those powers and join the people whose rights in Indiana are represented by the Democratic party. Had he seen clearly, how gladly we would have welcomed him. His conduct, however, in still maintaining that he believes in the doctrine of protection and yet is opposed to the powers of pillage, which cannot exist without the protective theory, reminds me of that passage of Scripture wherein it is recorded: "And he took the blind man by the hand and led him out of the town and when he had spit upon his eyes and put his hands upon him, he asked him if he saw; and he looked up and said, 'I see men as trees walking.'" Regrettably I am compelled to say that the senior senator only sees the truth like trees walking. He has been so long in the darkness that his eyes are not yet accustomed to the light. I prophesy that he will be lined up with the Democratic party in Indiana two years hence. I make this prophecy because I believe that He who gives light to all of us will give more light to Senator Beveridge, and then I may read again from Holy Scripture: "After that He put his hands again upon his eyes and made him look up and he was restored to see every man clearly." Senator Beveridge is almost persuaded that the policy to which he has given the better part of his life is a policy so inimical to the best interests of the people that it must be constantly watched, guarded, curbed and controlled to prevent it from becoming a positive menace to our free institutions and to the best interests of the people. Some time he will realize that no prosecuting attorney can refuse to prosecute a man for stealing a horse while ready to prosecute him for stealing a team.

Throne of Conscience Usurped.

In view of the fact that our able and learned representative in the United States senate, the Hon. Benjamin F. Shively, will undoubtedly address you upon the iniquities of the present tariff law, I am not justified in attempting to discuss it at any length. For schedules, I have no head. Governments for me were not instituted among men either for the purpose of doing business or of having business do them. We delight in a land where men do things. We are beginning to find out that we are living in a land where men do other men. The Golden Rule has been superseded by the rule of Gold; the commandment "Thou shalt not steal," by "Thou shalt not be convicted." Success has usurped the throne of conscience, and failure is our only crime. The Joahs of high finance smile gladly on the common people, and as they ask, "Is it well with thee today, my brother," deftly insert their knives into the fifth ribs of humanity. Not what we ought to have, but what we want is the distorted rule of life. Conscience has become the verminiform appendix of high finance. It was not written, "Thou shalt not steal," from the American people to build the Panama canal, but lo, it was written: "Thou shalt not squeal."

Wrongs to Be Righted.

The whole system of protection is, as was wisely declared by the Democratic platform of 1892, "a fraud and robbery of the great majority of the American people for the benefit of the few." The Democratic party of Indiana now, as always, proclaims its unalterable belief that no government has the right to levy by tariff or other taxation, a single dollar which does not go into the treasury of the United States, or to take a penny from the pocket of one individual to put it in the pocket of another. It holds this system to be bad in morals, vicious in its inception and criminal in its operation. The hour has come in Indiana to begin to right those wrongs. Here and now, we not only pledge ourselves to the faithful administration of state affairs, but we also pledge our Democratic representatives in congress and our United States senators to stand fast by the ancient ideals of the Democratic party—by their votes to proclaim their undying opposition to the system of protection and by their votes to register the will of the people of Indiana against its iniquities. The pleasing fancy indulged in by the senior senator from Indiana when he makes a tariff bill so that the manufacturer will be enabled to charge what he pleases, the workman to get all the wages he wants, and the purchaser to buy as cheaply as he chooses, is an iridescent dream. No man with any sense of justice and propriety can proclaim the doctrine of protection as wise and honest and virtuous and yet condemn its offspring as illegitimate. "Infant industries" of this country no longer require the protecting arm of the nation—dear, pampered, infant prodigies, now they have grown to adult infamies, while the system which gave them protection has enabled less than fifty men to control 90 per cent of the wealth of the nation. We must get business out of politics and must take politics out of business. This must be done quietly, soberly, discreetly, at the ballot box or there will come an hour when the tolling millions of America, not willing to wait for an election, will accomplish by force that which should be accomplished by law.

The Preservation of Right.

There is a spirit of unrest abroad, a feeling that men do not stand equally before the law. Seven years in the Reformatory for stealing a ham—a seat in the senate of the United States for exploiting the coal lands of Alaska! Knowledge and information are generally diffused among the people. We know more, think more, feel more, enjoy more, than we ever did in all the past history of the world. Do you tell me that the humble wage earner of today is willing to look along the vista of the years and see nothing but a pauper's grave at the end, while a few men, by legislative enactments are enabled to dwell in marble halls and scatter money like drunken dukes at monkey dinners? "God does not pay at the end of every week, but he pays." He pays nations as he pays men, and that people is not wise which is not just. The American is a long-suffering man. In the midst of the most splendid civilization of all the ages, in a country rich beyond compare, he has been careless, thoughtless. Neither public or private expenditure has been in anywise curbed. The hour is here to stop some of these things. The Democratic party of Indiana demands the wiping from the statute books of every law which enables one man to prey upon the labor or the savings of another. It demands the preservation of every vested right in America, and it likewise demands the extermination of every vested wrong. It calls upon all men for public and private economy. It demands that public affairs shall be honestly and economically administered. It begs the individual citizen to be part of the common good and to stand for men, not systems, for right, not riches. It declares that cunning is not wisdom, that cupidity is not character. Forgetting those things which are behind it, it presses forward toward the era of the equality of all men before the law, and to the accomplishment of these ends, this convention pledges its life, its fortune and its sacred honor.

Along the Ancient Lines

At the risk of wearying you with platitudes, I again venture to assert that our people are desirous of having not only good government, but also constitutional government. We do not believe that the fathers of the republic intended to erect an edifice here with a Queen Anne front for the few and a Mary Ann rear for the many. The Democratic party in Indiana holds that truth is eternal. It believes in our system of government, and it thinks it is doing as much good in preventing departures from that system as in chasing every vagrant fancy which the human imagination may conjure up. It does not take much stock in a public policy which constantly requires reformation. It prefers to proceed slowly along ancient lines, assured that those lines inevitably lead to the greatest good to the greatest number.

HOW TO CURE ECZEMA, PIMPLES, AND DANDRUFF.

We desire to say that when we took the agency for ZEMO we were convinced that it was a valuable remedy for Eczema, Pimples and Dandruff. Yet we must frankly admit that Zemo has far exceeded our expectations as a treatment for skin diseases. We are pleased to state that we shall continue the agency as ZEMO has given splendid results wherever recommended. Our customers like ZEMO too, because it is a clean vegetable liquid for external use.

ZEMO effects its cure by drawing to the surface of the skin and destroying the germ life that causes the disease, leaving the skin clear and healthy. It does not soil the clothing or linen and can be used freely on infants.

With every purchase we give a booklet on skin diseases explaining in simple words how any person can be cured at home of any form of skin or scalp diseases by this clean, scientific remedy.

DEMOCRATS OF HOOSIERDOM

Are Today Gathered In State Convention.

ONE BIG QUESTION FOREMOST

Overshadowing the Important Detail of Naming a State Ticket Was the Question of Indorsing a Candidate For United States Senate—Governor Marshall Made a Strong Plea in This Behalf.

Indianapolis, April 28.—The Indiana Democratic state convention is in session today for the purpose of settling the question which for weeks has vexed the party in this state—whether or not a candidate for the United States senate shall be indorsed by the delegate convention—and of naming a ticket to carry the party's banner in the coming campaign.

In the preliminary meeting of the convention at Tomlinson hall last night Governor Marshall, as temporary chairman, pointedly and with much vigor referred to the senatorial proposition, denying, however, that the proposition which set the party by the ears was his. "The proposition is not mine," declared the governor with vehemence, "but the Democratic party's, and I simply voice what I believe to be Democratic sentiment," which utterance was greeted with an outburst of cheers, though it was plainly to be noted that these were not joined in by certain of the delegations, which sat in grim silence during this portion of the governor's great address. When a bit further on the governor declared: "It is up to this convention to do one of two things: Either to indorse a candidate for United States senator or to strike from its platform its twenty-year-old declaration that it believes in the election of United States senators by the people," there were more cheers—likewise the same measure of ominous silence. It was very clear that the delegates were divided on the question, and when, just before the night session adjourned, the report of the rules committee was adopted providing that the disturbing question should be presented to the convention for settlement the first thing upon reconvening in the morning, it was apparent to all observers that a warm fight was in prospect.

Though the night meeting of the convention had been called for 7:30, it was ten minutes later than that when State Chairman U. S. Jackson called the convention to order. By this time every seat in the great hall was filled, public interest in what Governor Marshall would have to say to the convention having attracted many beside the delegates. While Myron King, secretary of the state committee, was calling the roll of counties, Governor Marshall entered and took his place on the stage, the delegates rising and cheering him with much enthusiasm. Following the invocation by the Rev. R. W. Thompson, Chairman Jackson introduced the governor as temporary chairman, which was the signal for a further demonstration on the part of the delegates. Governor Marshall spoke for an hour and fifteen minutes and, despite a recent severe attack of throat trouble, was in good voice to the end, though declaring himself well nigh exhausted as he turned the gavel over to Colonel C. L. Jewett of New Albany at the conclusion of his address, requesting the doughty old colonel to pilot the convention in its further deliberations.

Despite the recent newspaper talk of the row over the manner of selecting the delegates in Indianapolis the other night, there was but one contest reported by the committee on credentials, this being from the First ward, the committee deciding in favor of the Taggart delegates.

The committee on rules and organization, reporting through its chairman, Judge Downey, announced as permanent chairman of the convention Senator Benjamin F. Shively, who addressed the convention at length this morning on national issues, and as secretary, A. D. Moffatt of Elwood, together with vice chairmen and assistant secretaries from each of the thirteen congressional districts. The rules, which were adopted, though scattering protests were heard from various parts of the hall, provided that the question: "Shall the convention nominate a candidate for the United States senate?" should be the first order of business in the morning, and that if the delegates should decide in the affirmative the nomination should be made immediately preceding the regular order of nomination of candidates on the state ticket. The rules also limited the debate on this question to forty-five minutes the side, and barred nominating speeches.

Much interest is being manifested in the naming of the state ticket today and several warm contests are on. Lew Ellingham of Decatur had no opposition in his race for the nomination for secretary of state; W. H. O'Brien of Lawrenceburg was likewise unopposed for auditor of state, and R. J. Ale, the incumbent, was not opposed for superintendent of public instruction. These nominations were therefore made by acclamation.

W. H. Vollmer of Vincennes, B. T. Merrell of Crawfordsville, and Charles Cooper of Indianapolis are asking for the nomination for treasurer of state. Thomas Honan of Seymour, Richard Milburn of Jasper, and Adam Wise of Plymouth are in an interesting contest for attorney general.

In the race for clerk of the supreme and appellate courts, J. Fred France of Huntington, Gilbert Hendren of Bloomfield and A. J. Behmyer of Elwood are contenders.

Thomas Brolley of North Vernon, David Sanders of Covington and J. D. Smith of Dana are aspirants for the nomination for state legislator.

Judge Douglass Morris of Rushville and J. K. Ewing of Greensburg are after the supreme judgeship, Second district. In the third district Charles E. Cox, David Hefron, W. V. Rooker and Charles Barrett of Indianapolis are the supreme court candidates.

For the appellate bench, southern district, Milton Hotel, Salem; E. W. Felt, Greenfield; Edwin Taylor, Evansville; Orion B. Harris, Terre Haute and Sullivan, and John Megee, Rushville, are among the starters. In the northern district the candidates for appellate judgeships are: A. A. Adams, Columbia City; Joseph Ibach, Hammond; B. C. Moon, Kokomo, and M. B. Lairy, Logansport. There are two appellate judges to be nominated in the southern district, and three to be chosen in the northern district.

MINERS DENOUNCE ACTION OF LEWIS

They Refuse to Accept Operators' Proposition.

Terre Haute, Ind., April 28.—The committee of miners reported to their convention that the operators adhere to the principle that work must continue while negotiations proceed for a contract. President Lewis of the United Mine Workers has left the city for Pittsburg, but the convention was explicitly informed that he upholds the operators. "The miners showed a great deal of feeling and many of them did not hesitate to denounce the action of Lewis as opposed to the best interests of the organization. They refused to accept the operators' proposition. There is a decided shortage of steam coal, and unless the mines get to work in a few days, many of the factories will be compelled to close.

He Has Had Enough.

New York, April 28.—After a four years' struggle that has cost him all his time, some of his health and certainly a large share of his fortune, Oscar Hammerstein has gone out of the grand opera business for good.

MR. WISE DIDN'T SPARE HEINZE

Declares Operations to Be Film-flam and Bunco.

GLIMPSE OF HEINZE DEFENSE

Lawyers For the Man Whose Operations in the Line of "High Finance" Got Him in Bad With Uncle Sam Maintain That He Was President of the Bank in Name Only and Therefore Not Responsible for Trouble.

New York, April 28.—In his opening remarks to the jury at the trial of Fritz Augustus Heinze in the United States circuit court, a "film-flam and a bunco," was the way United States Attorney Wise characterized the United Copper company. Mr. Wise said the government would show that the Mercantile in 1907, when Heinze was its president, had lent over $5,000,000 to Heinze's associates during the time that they were manipulating a pool in the stock; that they had even borrowed money to pay United Copper dividends, and that the Mercantile had been a gambling institution.

A glimpse of what the defense of Heinze is to be was permitted right after the government had got through stating its case and attendants began to file into court staggering under the weight of ledgers of the bank and ledgers of the copper company, which the government for a while last fall had to play a hide-and-seek game with. In objecting to anything being used out of these books, unless the defendant's connection had been first shown, Mr. Stanchfield, one of the Heinze lawyers, said that Mr. Heinze was absent during nearly all the time covered by the loans in question, that he was president of the bank in name only, and that the real head of the bank during this time was Miles M. O'Brien, first vice president. This seemed to arouse some interest in the courtroom.

Mr. Wise took an hour and a half to state his case to the jury. He wanted the jury to thoroughly understand, he said, right at the beginning, that he wasn't acting for the Standard Oil, which the defense contends is Mr. Heinze's nemesis. Neither was he prosecutor of Charles W. Morse, he said. He said that the jury might hear that over-certification, one of the crimes alleged against Heinze, was done frequently by the banks here, but it was nevertheless unlawful, and it was also unlawful to let a bank's reserves get below the 25 per cent legal limit or to loan over 10 per cent of a bank's capital and surplus to one borrower. Between June and Oct. 14, 1907, the bank, he continued, had loaned $491,000 on United Copper stock. "It was not worth last week's newspaper," said Mr. Wise. When, on Oct. 14, Otto Heinze & Co. wanted half a million more and the bank's reserve was down to 14 per cent, he charged Heinze, against the remonstrance of the cashier, gave orders to overcertify a check, and with panic conditions threatening, the firm took out from the bank a total of $457,000 without any security whatsoever. At no time, he said, was the stock worth over $20 a share.

"I will show you," said Mr. Wise, "that Otto Heinze, Arthur Heinze and Max C. Schultze held the control of that company and formed a pool to inflate the price of the stock. To do this they took the cash capital of the company and paid a regular 1 1/2 per cent quarterly dividend on the $50,000 out of capital stock and not out of earnings. This was done for the purpose of deceiving the public, the innocent investors. The stock was to be advanced through the medium of washed sales. Such a plan was a dangerous and a hazardous one. It could not result in anything but disaster unless there was injected into it money beyond their legitimate means. It was nothing short of a sheer gamble. Mr. Heinze was president of the United Copper company and president of the bank."

"In order to raise the stock to fool the suckers," said the United States attorney, "money was borrowed to pay a dividend. This was a film-flam and a bunco."

Court Admits Probable Presumption of Guilt.

Kansas City, April 28.—Dr. B. Clark Hyde, on trial for his life for the alleged murder of Colonel Thomas H. Swope, was deprived of his liberty by Judge Latshaw of the criminal court at the close of court yesterday. The action of Judge Latshaw is in effect a revocation of Hyde's bond and was taken after what Judge Latshaw states was a conclusion that he arrived at as to the probable presumption of guilt of the defendant after the evidence of the purchase of twenty-one capsules of cyanide of potassium from a drug store had been presented, and also the evidence that he had secured half a dozen tubes of germ culture.

His Conscience Brought Him.

Logansport, Ind., April 28.—Saying that his conscience troubled him so badly that he had no peace of mind, John Purrows, aged twenty, of Sparta, Wis., who was arrested here on a charge of drunkenness, confessed to holding up a wealthy mill owner in Sparta, with the intention of robbing him. An officer took the young man back to Wisconsin, where he will face trial.

the Democratic State Convention. He probably wants to collect some official data concerning Sunday baseball.

PREACHER-POLITICIAN.

Thomas H. Kuhn, Democratic Politician,
In Seymour a Short Time.

Elder Thomas H. Kuhn, the preacher-politician and lecturer, from Richmond, Indiana, passed through the city this morning en route from Atlanta, where he delivered a commencement address last night, to Logansport, where he will deliver the address to the high school graduating class this evening. Rev. Kuhn delivers many commencement addresses and expects to deliver anywhere from 75 to 100 this year. He has already had nearly a hundred calls, but some of these had to be declined because of conflicting dates. He had five requests for last night, but Atlanta was ahead. He passed through Indianapolis yesterday and again this morning, but was too busy filling his lecture dates to more than look in a few moments and pass on.

He said: "I preach every Sunday and Sunday night, roost on railroad trains, lecture every night during the week and work politics in the meantime."

He mentioned the fact incidentally
this morning that he was a candidate for the nomination for Congress again in his district. He seems to have ideas of his own along that line which are not entirely in harmony, either with the ideas of Tom Taggart or Governor Marshall.

Reverend Kuhn has been much in demand in this county as well as elsewhere, and has made a number of addresses throughout the county. He received an invitation here this morning to stop at Medora to assist in laying the corner stone of the new Christian church there this afternoon, but replied
"Can't do it. I am a busy man. I have 200 letters to get out today in addition to giving a public lecture tonight."

$100 REWARD, $100.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

Powers to Be Broadened.

Washington, April 25.—That the powers of the existing tariff board will be so broadened as to give that body authority to make extensive investigation into cost production here and in foreign countries is assured as a result of recent conferences between senate and house leaders.

The A. Burdall paint store at Indianapolis was practically destroyed by fire early this morning.

HUGE MOUND AS A STATE PARK.

Historic Relic Purchased by West Virginia.

FIRST DISCOVERED IN 1772.

It Gives Moundsville Its Name and Is One of the Most Celebrated and Best Preserved Memorials of the Remains of a Prehistoric Race—Guarded by Heirs of G. S. McFadden For Years.

Standing seventy feet in height and measuring 900 feet in circumference, with trees growing upon its summit
estimated to be at least 700 years old, the mammoth mound from which Moundsville, W. Va., derives its name, located on the Grave creek flats, near the Ohio river—the greatest monument of antiquity in the Ohio valley and a tremendous memorial of the aboriginal life of the prehistoric people—has been purchased by the state of West Virginia and converted into a public park.

The legislature of the Mountain State, following unceasing activity in the interest of the purchase of the mound for twenty years, appropriated $10,000 with which to save the relic from the ravages of modern commercialism. The deed of transfer from G. S. McFadden's heirs to the state of West Virginia was formally executed before the work of beautifying the grounds was allowed to commence.
Twenty-five thousand dollars is the price to be paid for the mound. Of this sum $5,000 has been donated by the heirs as a memorial to their father, who preserved the mound for years. A similar sum was raised by subscription by the school children of the state. The last payment on the purchase price is due next October.

Builders of Mounds and "Hill Forts."

The mound in question is one of the most celebrated and best preserved of the remains of the prehistoric American race which, for lack of a better name and because of its characteristic habit of erecting these mounds, has become known as the "mound builders."
Antedating the Indian, they appear to have been driven by an invasion of strangers—possibly the first Indians—from the northwestern part of the American continent in a general southwesterly direction, mounds and "hill forts" marking their retreat. The best remains are found in the Miami and Ohio river valleys. There is a theory that this strange people may have migrated into Mexico and formed
there the nucleus of the powerful Aztec nation, conquered by Cortes.

The mound was first discovered by Joseph Tomlinson of Pittsburg in 1772.
The man, one of the pioneer adventurers, journeyed down the Ohio river
from Pittsburg in an open canoe, searching for a location for a home in the trackless wilds. Mooring his bark near Little Grave creek, just north of where the city of Moundsville now stands, he toured the country there-about for a suitable site for his prospective cabin, coming upon the mound.

Experiences of Its First Settler.

Realizing nothing of the historic value of his discovery or that the mound was anything more than a curious conformation of the earth, Tomlinson, impressed with the region, returned to Pittsburg, loaded his family and his belongings upon a raft and ventured again upon the broad bosom of the Ohio. He was the first settler in this territory and to all intents and purposes the founder of the present cities of Moundsville and Wheeling.
Other settlers followed the path blazed by Tomlinson in the wilderness. A small colony was formed north of the location of the mound at a point near what is now known as the city of Wheeling. As a protection against the Indians a stockade that afterward became celebrated as Fort Henry was erected. Several years later Simon Girty, the renegade, in company with White Cloud and his band of Black-feet, marched up the Ohio and attacked the home of Tomlinson. His two small sons were slain, but he and his wife escaped to Fort Henry. The attempt of the redskins to take the fort and their ultimate repulse are now matters of history. It was during this battle that Betsy Zane made her heroic run through the line of Indian fire to a storage house from which she received a keg of powder to be used in defense of the fort, the ammunition
having become exhausted.

A quarter of a century ago the late
G. S. McFadden purchased the mound in order to prevent its being sold to a German who knew the value of the spot for a popular resort and intended opening a saloon on its summit. A year or more ago the heirs of McFadden served notice that they had held the mound as long as possible and that it would be sold at once. State officials secured an option on the property, later securing from the legislature an appropriation sufficient to warrant the purchase.

Thousands of South Pole Applicants.

Among the 8,000 applicants who are anxious to join Captain Scott in his British expedition to the south pole
are all sorts and conditions of men—
doctors, engineers, civil servants, railway porters and men of private means. "The man for the work," said an official of the expedition, "is the man who is absolutely physically fit in all points."

Wilson, of Scottsburg, which was solemnized Wednesday evening, April 27, 1900, at 8:30 o'clock at the home of Miss Amanda Baird, 412 East Fifth street. The ceremony was pronounced by Rev. Hayden H. Allen. The wedding was quiet, only the immediate relatives and a few friends being invited to witness the ceremony.

The house throughout was most beautifully decorated with palms, ferns and spring flowers, the parlor and sitting room were very attractive in green and white with roses and wall pockets of brides' roses. Swinging from the large opening between these rooms was a wedding bell made of cut flowers, and it was here that the wedding ceremony took place. Miss Margaret Schobert presided at the piano and at the appointed time played the Lohengrin wedding march and the bride and groom entered the room preceded by the minister and Miss Baird. After congratulations were extended the company was invited to the dining room, the table being decorated with pink and white carnations and ferns, the whole room being a bower of spring flowers. Refreshments of ice cream and cake were served.

The bride wore a beautiful gown of white mousseline over white silk mull, trimmed with Valenciennes lace and carried a shower bouquet of bride's roses. Mrs. Wilson has lived in Seymour most of her life, and for the past seven years has been the companion of Miss Baird with whom she has made her home, while Mr. Wilson is a native of Scott county and one of its most successful and prosperous school teachers. Mr. and Mrs. Wilson left last evening to spend a few days with friends in the north part of the state, after which they will return to Scottsburg where they

TURKEY FACES A CIVIL WAR

Uprising in Albania Growing Formidable.

MEHMED'S THRONE IN BALANCE

It is conceded in Constantinople that the success of the revolt would mean the restoration of Exiled Old Abdul Hamid and the retirement of the forces of the "Young Turks," now in power.

Constantinople, April 27.—The latest advices from Albania show that the situation there is becoming very serious. The uprising is growing and the Turkish troops under Shekret Pasha, the minister of war, were at last accounts in a perilous position. The insurgent Albanians have captured Katchanik pass and by so doing have isolated the Turkish troops from their communications.

A great fight is going on between the Turks and the Albanians to the west of Prishtina. Both sides are steadily being reinforced, and it is probable that before the end of the week 100,000 men will be engaged. After vainly trying to minimize the seriousness of the uprising, officials of the war department admitted that the situation amounts to civil war.

The 35,000 rebels now in the field have had the better of the fighting, and are being led by a number of former army officers, who were discharged at the time of the Sultan Hamid's deposition. They have joined the rebels, knowing that the overthrow of the present regime will mean the restoration of Abdul and their return to power.

The revolt is now believed to be wholly religious, though waged under the cry of political and economic reform. The government agreed, two weeks ago, to grant the reforms demanded, but it had no effect. The Albanians have never ceased in their loyalty to Abdul and look upon the Young Turks' progressive program as an attempt to overthrow their religion.

HOUSE LEADERS IN TIGHT PLACE

Barely Saved Court Provision of Railway Bill.

TAKING MEASURE OF COMFORT

Friends of the Administration Point Out That Test Vote Was Not Really a Test of Full Strength and That They Have a Reserve Force—Democrats and Insurgents Combine to Cause a Tie Vote in House.

Washington, April 27.—That section of the administration railway bill providing for the creation of a court of commerce, was adopted by the house in committee of the whole, although stoutly opposed by a combination made up of insurgents and the Democratic minority. The victory for the administration however, was nothing to boast of, being won by a tie vote. The vote was on a motion to strike the court provision from the bill and a count disclosed that 140 stood for the motion and 139 against it. Thereupon Representative Bennett of New York, who was presiding, sided with the friends of the commerce court and voted "no," making the vote 140 to 140 and saving the day for the administration. The fight for the court provision was not won as a finality yet. As the house was acting in committee of the whole, an opportunity will still be offered for a record vote. House leaders insist, however, that the test vote indicates that the court provision will be a part of the measure, as it will be sent to the senate. They point out that the maximum vote registered was 280. More than one hundred members were absent, many of them Republicans. Only fifteen insurgent votes were polled against the court provision and it takes at least 26 Republicans acting with the Democrats to overturn the majority.

The friends of the administration are accordingly able to find comfort in the vote, declaring that the action of the house in committee of the whole foreshadows the adoption of the court provision when it comes up for consideration on the final passage of the bill.

BILLION DOLLAR LOSS

A Chicago Estimate Fixes Crop Damage at This Figure.

Chicago, April 27.—From west, middle west, and southwest states, has come the news of well nigh a billion dollar loss, as an outgrowth of the freak storms that have swept barren fields, valleys, orchards, and pastures. #### Sent Out For Mercenary Reasons.

SORROWFUL SIGHT

Imprisoned Bootleggers Compelled to See Booze Go in the Sewer.

Brazil, Ind., April 27.—The fifteen inmates of the county jail witnessed the destruction of 800 bottles of beer and several barrels of whisky, gin and brandy. ## COPPER MAN AT LAST FACES JURY OF PEERS

F. Augustus Heinze On Trial in New York.

New York, April 27.—All day yesterday was consumed in getting a jury to try Fritz Augustus Heinze, the copper man and erstwhile banker, in the United States circuit court on the charge of overcertifying and misapplying the funds of the Mercantile bank at the time he was president, just before the panic of 1907. It was 5 o'clock when both sides had exhausted their challenges and the jury box was filled. Then the jury, in charge of twelve deputy marshals, was escorted over to the Astor House, which will be their home until the trial ends. At the Astor House six rooms have been engaged. Like the Morse jury, they are to be carefully watched.

Heinze, faultlessly attired in a black cutaway, trimmed with heavy braid, watched the tedious process of getting rid of objectionable talesmen.

MRS. ARMSTRONG WAS PRONOUNCED GUILTY

Verdict of Jury in Celebrated Poisoning Case.

Jeffersonville, Ind., April 27.—Mrs. Pearl Armstrong, charged with the murder of her husband, George Armstrong, at their home in New Albany last December, by administering strychnine, carbolic acid and calomel, was found guilty of manslaughter, for which the law provides an indeterminate term of imprisonment of from two to twenty-one years.

Mrs. Armstrong was the last witness on the stand, and she held her own fairly well through a grilling cross-examination. In direct examination she had emphatically denied every piece of evidence against her and had also told of attempts of her husband to poison himself. In cross-examination she said she had known David Fogle about five years, that the latter had not seen the insurance policy before Armstrong's death, that the policy for $1,000 in the Modern Woodmen was in her favor. During the address of Senator Stotsenburg, for the state, she sat with her face covered and her arm around her mother's neck, her father, James Sullivan, sitting on the other side of her, while Armstrong's mother, Mrs. Gaskell, sat on the opposite side of the courtroom. Practically the only evidence of the defense was that of the defendant herself. Senator Stotsenburg found motive for the alleged crime in the ill feeling that existed between the couple, in her desire for Fogle and in the insurance policy executed in her favor.

He pointed to the finding of a box of rough on rats and a bottle of strychnine in a vault before it was known that the stomach of the dead man contained arsenic or strychnine, but when it was supposed some other poison had been used. He recounted the alleged efforts of the woman to get rid of her husband, trying calomel first, then the arsenic in rough on rats, but before that had time to take effect, giving him carbolic acid in capsules and still finding him no worse, finally the strychnine. He emphasized the fact that she said her husband took calomel and carbolic acid, and said nothing about the other poisons. A large crowd was present at the closing session of the trial.

Senator Burrows's friends announce that he has determined to remain in the race for renomination for the senate.

I congratulate you and every fair minded American on your preferment."

Daddy's Bedtime Story—

The Frog and the Foolish Fish

"Jump Up and Catch a Worm," said the Frog

"CHILDREN," said daddy, "it is a good thing in this world to know where you belong and stay there. That reminds me of the story of the frog and the foolish fish. A frog can live both in water and on dry land, but a fish can live only in water.

"Once there was a big frog that got lonesome when he was out on dry land. So he wanted a playmate. He spent part of his time swimming around among the fishes. But he couldn't stay under water all the time. Besides, he thought it was more fun to hop around in the grass and weeds now and then, where he could catch flies and bugs and have a feast.

"He had met one fine sun perch fish in the water that he liked very much. The sun perch was a very lively swimmer and was quite fond of worms to eat. Whenever a worm got in the water the fish would gobble him up.

"'Say, Perchy,' said the frog one day, 'why don't you come outside with me some time and stay on the bank awhile? You can find plenty of worms out there.'

"'Yes,' said the fish, 'but I can't jump around like you. My fins are not feet, you know.'

"'But,' said the frog, 'I have seen you jump clear out of the water to catch a fly, and I'm sure you could jump nearly as far as I can if you'd only come out on land and try it.'

"The fish thought it would be a fine idea. But he didn't know how to get out of the water. 'You see,' he said to the frog, 'every time I jump above the water to catch a fly I come right down and light in the water again. What would I light on if I jumped out on the land?'

"'Why, on the nice soft grass,' said the frog. 'Come along, now, I'll perch, and jump out with me.' 'Well,' said Perchy, 'here goes.'

"So the fish gave a big floppy jump and came down on the bank in the soft grass, and the frog leaped out close by. But the fish fell over on his side and couldn't jump any more. He just dopped and dopped around. Everything looked mighty strange to Perchy out there, and he felt awfully homesick for the water. He found he couldn't get his breath on dry land, and the nice soft grass wasn't half so nice as the good cool water.

"'Jump up and catch a worm,' said the frog. 'I can't even catch my breath,' said the fish in a very weak voice. And then poor Perchy gasped a few times and turned over and died.

"'After awhile the worms gathered there and ate Perchy's body, all but the bones. 'Foolish fish,' said the worms. 'If you'd stayed where you belong you'd still be having fun.'

THEY REJECTED THE INVITATION

Insurgents Decline to Join the Democrats.

EVEN UNCLE SHELBY LAUGHED

When the Showdown Between Senate Insurgents and Democrats Came the Old Guard Were Happier Than They Have Been in Many a Day, While the Insurgents Were a Good Bit Peeved.

Washington, April 28.—Democrats in the senate turned upon the insurgents and left them stranded and very much embarrassed. It was the most interesting political episode that has occurred in the senate this session, and probably will have a sobering effect upon insurgency. Senator Rayner of Maryland and Senator Bailey of Texas both in effect served notice upon the insurgents that they were tired of the flirtation that the radicals have been carrying on with the Democracy and called for a decision as to whether they really had any honorable intentions of entering into the bonds of political wedlock with the minority party. Both invited them to cease their coquetish ways and come over and join the Democrats.

"I am becoming weary," said Senator Rayner, "of being fondled and caressed only to be rejected and deserted when the supreme moment arrives."

"No man can claim the protection of a flag and at the same time fire upon it," was one of the stinging statements that the Texas senator directed at the insurgents.

This attack upon the insurgents from an entirely unexpected quarter took the tuck completely out of the insurgent band for a few minutes, and all of them, from La Follette down, were hopping mad. They held a hurried conference and finally Senator Dolliver of Iowa rejected the offer of the Democrats to take them into their fold, retorting with a considerable display of feeling that the Democratic party was not worthy of such recruits.

The conservatives in the senate in the meantime were happier than they have been on any other day this session. Senator Aldrich was chuckling so hard that he had to hold his sides; Senator Elkins wore a grin that stretched from ear to ear; Senator Root also was tickled and even Uncle Shelby Cullom treated himself to a laugh.

This charge made by Democrats themselves that the insurgents are merely an annex of the minority party, drew blood, for it is the very cry that is being raised among the insurgents in their home districts. The radicals were very peevish over the incident and were inclined to tax the Democrats with pulling Republican chestnuts out of the fire.

The Bailey speech was one of his choice partisan utterances for which he has become more or less noted in the senate, and which in the past has generally had the effect of restoring faltering party lines in that body.

TRIED TO END IT

This Young Woman Preferred Death to Unwelcome Marriage.

Clinton, Ind., April 28.—Mrs. Achim Serban, aged eighteen, a bride of a day, attempted suicide by shooting herself in the breast with a revolver at her home in North Eighth street. The young woman, whose name was Anna Misher, is said to have agreed to marry Serban, a merchant, against her own wishes, to satisfy her mother.

There was a stormy scene just before the marriage, argument and persuasion being necessary to get the young woman to consent to the ceremony. The young woman was taken to a Terre Haute hospital in a serious condition, though physicians expect her to recover. The bride's friends say she had been engaged to a young man who died a year ago and had since then been despondent.

TALKED IT OVER

Indiana Republican Chairman Dines With the President.

Washington, April 28.—E. M. Lee, chairman of the Indiana Republican committee, was among the president's guests at luncheon. The president expressed a desire to go over the Indiana political situation with him.

Representative Barnard gave the president first hand the story of the Sixth Indiana district Republican congressional convention. The president asked him to drop in and tell him about it. Mr. Taft said he was pleased with the platform adopted by the convention.

Oil Well Caved In.

Sullivan, Ind., April 28.—Oil, apparently in abundance, was struck on the Frank Sanders farm, two and a half miles west of the city, by the Hamilton Oil and Gas company, but when the casing was pulled in an effort to shoot the well, 100 feet of the hole caved in and shooting was delayed.

Kermit and Ethel Roosevelt made a flight in a Wright biplane at Vincennes, France, late Wednesday afternoon.

MANY KNIVES OUT

A Few Side Lights On Today's Democratic Mixup at Indianapolis.

[Special Correspondence.]

Indianapolis, April 28.—Republicans all over the state have been taking an amused interest in the cat and monkey time the Democrats have been having in Indianapolis for several days last past. Because of chaotic conditions resulting from the strife between bitter factions, it is possible to give only side-lights on Democratic harmony as it is being written today in blood by fierce and warlike contenders for boss control. The Democratic state convention is one big, seething joint debate. Where two Democrats get together there are locked horns and profane exclamations. Friends of John E. Lamb have been tooting horns, flaunting Lamb badges, and defying the Taggart machine. Mr. Lamb, running for United States senator, and demanding a convention endorsement of the party's senatorial candidate, has denounced Tom Taggart and Taggart's machine even within the lobby of Mr. Taggart's own hotel, and he has spoken, with brass band accompaniment, against machine rule and Taggart domination. Mr. Lamb put himself to the front as member of the rules committee for the Fifth district, in order to be able to carry to the floor of the convention the Marshall fight for a senatorial endorsement. Mr. Lamb has put his whole energy and force into the fight against the Taggart crowd, and the result is that a bitter feud has shown itself at every turn.

The knife is out for Lamb, and it may be said in passing that Taggart cutlery is as big of blade as Lamb steel. Crawford Fairbanks and his friends are declaring that Mr. Lamb's course in the state convention has made it impossible for the Democrats to carry Vigo county and the Fifth district. On the other hand, the Lamb men openly vow that unless Mr. Lamb has his way, Vigo county is certain to go against the Democrats this fall. Which is very interesting to Republicans.

Governor Marshall, who brought on the whole mixup by proposing that the Democrats pick an opponent to pit against Senator Beveridge, has been accused of backing down. Privately he has taken the ground that now is the time to get rid of Tom Taggart and Taggartism. He has gone so far as to let it be known in an indirect way that if Taggart is to be the party's senatorial candidate, the people might as well know it now and realize just where they stand politically. He does not say what he would do in case Taggart should place himself on the ticket as the nominee for United States senator. But the governor has been trying his best to lead the Democrats of Indiana away from the snares and pitfalls that surround a secret ballot legislative caucus of Democrats, when such a caucus is personally conducted by Mr. Taggart. With Taggart on the ticket, the anti-Taggart men will know what to do. It is safe to say that with Taggart controlling the convention, or adorning the senatorial ticket, Indiana is in for a real Democratic revolution.

The fight against Taggart is only beginning. As the story of the Marion county primaries becomes better known, the anti-Taggart Democrats are talking more and more strongly for revolution and for the bosses' overthrow. With Taggart showing that he has tightened his grip on the party, then it is left for the anti-Taggart men to carry the revolt to the polls in November. That is the feeling among the Marshall delegates as the convention proceeds to its clashing climax.

Then there is Senator Shively, who came on the scene quietly and put the kibosh on the Taggart scheme for a primary election to be held in December next to name a senatorial candidate. Senator Shively regards Tom Taggart's candidacy for the United States senate as nothing less than an effort to double-cross Judge Joseph H. Shea, of Seymour. Senator Shively did not take at all kindly to the Taggart candidacy for the senate. He not only refused to advocate the Taggart primary election scheme, but he is said to have refused to countenance Taggart's demand for a toga. So there is strife, more or less, between Shively and Taggart. For some reason not stated, it appears that Senator Shively wishes to name his colleague, and that he desires to have as his senate mate from Indiana, Judge Shea, who managed the Shively secret ballot caucus campaign in 1909.

Crawford Fairbanks, Terre Haute millionaire brewer, who finances Taggartism, declared yesterday his belief that Thomas Taggart would be the Democratic senatorial candidate, and he went further to say that Mr. Taggart could make a mixing campaign among Indiana people, show that he has no horns, and make himself a strong, popular candidate before the people. Mr. Fairbanks, millionaire brewer, gave it out yesterday that the Democratic state convention would declare in favor of the repeal of the county option law, substituting for that law a cities and incorporated towns and township unit law, with a possible population limitation on liquor licenses. He declared that there should be no high license plank.

JULIUS C. BURROWS

Michigan Senator Defies Resignation Rumor to Catch Him.

SENATOR BURROWS SCOUTS THE IDEA Emphatic In Denial of Resignation Rumor.

Washington, April 25.—Senator Julius C. Burrows of Michigan was very emphatic in his denial of a story printed in local newspapers as a dispatch from Detroit saying that he was preparing to retire from the race for re-nomination for the senate. It was stated in the dispatch that sentiment against him was so strong that his friends had decided to hold a conference in Washington Tuesday next and endeavor to enlist the good offices of Senator Burrows's colleague, Senator William Alden Smith. Falling in this, they stated that Senator Burrows would be compelled to withdraw from the race.

The senior senator from Michigan appeared to be much amused by the story. "If any of your friends have been making wagers or investments under the impression that I am to retire from the race for re-nomination you would do well to advise them to hedge," said he. Senator Burrows is receiving favorable reports and appears to be confident of the result.

Notwithstanding Senator Burrows's denial, the rumor was current today that some of the senator's friends had been suggesting the possibility of his retiring from the race. The senator has a hard primary fight ahead of him against Representative Townsend, and his friends intimate that it will cost a large sum of money to carry on a successful campaign. Senator Burrows was elected to the senate in 1895 and will be in line for the chairmanship of the powerful finance committee as soon as Senator Aldrich retires.

READY FOR THE JOB

Indianapolis Policemen Equipped to Enforce Hatpin Ordinance.

Indianapolis, April 25.—The difficulty of enforcing the hatpin ordinance, which fixes a fine for wearing a pin that protrudes a half-inch beyond the brim of the hat has been solved by Mayor Shank and Police Superintendent Hyland insofar as determining liability under the law is concerned. The police are to be provided with little silver-plated or steel scale about two inches long and marked in inches, halves, quarters and eighths, so that the exact length of the protruding end may be determined when an arrest is made. Where an officer believes that the ordinance is being violated he will be required to take the exact measurement of the protruding end so that the fact may be established in court without doubt.

Grand Jury Will Investigate.

Richmond, Ind., April 25.—William Lewis was bound over to the grand jury on a charge of murder, following the death of Albert Dickey, who was assaulted by Lewis. The grand jury will also make an investigation of the death of E. K. White, a prominent farmer, who is alleged to have died from arsenic poisoning.

Havana, April 27.—Indictments have been returned against General Evaristo Estenoz, the negro leader, and twenty-two other negro prisoners, charging them with the crime of inciting rebellion and instigating anti-white violence. The evidence submitted indicated that extensive preparations had been made for a general uprising against the government.
